Saturday, June 15. 1706.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 19.

Madrid, June 4.

AT length we have receiv'd Advice, that the Difficulties of continuing the Siege of Barcelona, became so great after the Enemy had receiv'd Succours by Sea, that the King was oblig'd to raise the Siege. Some of the Enemy's Troops and those of the Place, endeavour'd to harra's the Rearguard in the Retreat, but they were beaten in several Skirmishes by the Duke de Noailles who led it; and who afterwards commanding the Vanguard, defeated several Troops of Miquelets, and forc'd the rest to retire to their Dwellings. The King has since continued his Journey: A Courier from Pampelona has brought Advice of his Catholick Majesty's Arrival there, and we expect him here the 6th Instant. The Canons of the Cathedral Church of Pampelona have made a considerable Free-Gift to his Majesty, towards the Charge of the War. The Troops are on the march by Navarre to return into Castile. The Horse of the military Orders, are drawing together at Buen-Retiro as the King had directed, and are in a good Condition and pretty numerous. The Rendezvous of the Militia and Recruits, is at Casa del Campo, where Cloaths and Arms are given them. We have an Account, that the Garrison of Ciudad Rodrigo, which consisted but of one single Regiment of regular Troops and some Militia, after 8 Days Resistance, was oblig'd to capitulate on honourable Terms.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 19.

Brussels, June 11. The French and Spanish Troops having retir'd out of Bruges, Damme, and the Country of Waes, the Garrison of the City of Antwerp, who could no longer be succour'd, offer'd to capitulate the 3d Instant. The Allies demanded that they should yield themselves Prisoners of War; but they declar'd they would defend themselves to the last Extremity, unless honourable Conditions were allow'd them. So the Allies were forc'd to agree, that the 13 Battallions of French and Spaniards that were there, should march out with Arms and Baggage, 4 Pieces of Cannon, and 2 Mortars, with Ammunition for 12 Charges, to be conducted to Quesnoy; which was perform'd Yesterday. It appears the Loss of the Allies in the Battle was very considerable, by the great Number of the kill'd, and of the wounded, most of whom dye; for they write from Liege, that from the 25th of May to the 2d of this Month, 834 were buried in that Town only; among them were some Prisoners, the rest having been sent to Holland. This Loss has oblig'd the Allies to draw out almost all their Garrisons to reinforce their Army, and besides they expect the Troops of Brandenburg and Lunenburg. The Governours of Ath and Dendermonde have refus'd to surrender, and the latter has overflow'd the Ground without his Works. The Marquis de Tarazona Governour of the Castle of Antwerp, who refus'd the Succours that were offer'd him, is left with his Garrison in that Castle by the Allies till further Order from the Archduke.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 19.

Dunkirk, June 12. The fortified Places of this Country are all in a good Condition, and provided with strong Garrisons, Ammunition, and all things necessary for their Defence. The Spanish Governours of Dendermonde, Ath, Ostend, Newport, Mons, Charleroy, Namur, and Luxembourg, have given Proofs of their Loyalty and Zeal for the Service of the King of Spain, by refusing to surrender to the Enemy, and by receiving into their Places the Reinforcements of Troops, and other Succours that they wanted. The Governour of Newport has open'd his Sluyces, and laid the Country under Water as far as Bruges and thereabouts, as also the Country about Furnes and Fort Knock near Ipres. All the Places belonging to the King are plentifully furnish'd with Ammunition, and all sorts of Provisions, with numerous Garrisons. There are besides 2 Camps on the Frontier, one of 12000 Men at Mortagne on the Schelde between Conde and Tournay, the other of 18000 Men at Armentieres on the Lys 3 Leagues from Lille. Further Reinforcements are daily expected.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated June 22.

Paris, June 17. 'Tis advis'd from Piemont, that the 10th Instant the Trenches against the Citadel of Turin were advanc'd within 50 Paces of the outmost Works; but our Generals being warn'd by Deserters and others that the Duke of Savoy had caus'd all the Works round the City and Citadel to be undermin'd, we shall be forc'd to set Workmen to sapping to discover the Mines, which must take up a great deal of Time: The Besieged make a great Fire from their Artillery; but with little Execution. We are extremely alarm'd here at the Progress of the Allies in the Netherlands. Wherefore all Diligence is us'd for reinforcing our Army. The new Levies (which are to be 36000 Men Foot and Horse,) are carried on vigorously, and the best Men are pick'd out of the Militia to recruit the old Regiments. The King has sent Order to the Marshal de Villars to send a third Detachment to reinforce the Elector of Bavaria's Army.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated June 22.

Liege, June 19. The Troops of Hanover commanded by General Bulau, arriv'd the 17th in our Neighbourhood. The Horse consisting of 5 Regiments pass'd the same Day through this Place, and Yesterday Morning 8 Regiments of Foot follow'd. Their Troops are to be joyn'd near Tongres by those of Prussia, to proceed together to Flanders.

Maastricht,

Maestricht, June 19. General Nazmar pass'd through this Place the 17th Instant, with some Prussian Troops that are to joyn our Army in Flanders. Yesterday he was follow'd by a Regiment of Prussians, and more are expected.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 22.

From M. d' Auverquerque's Camp at Lombaerdyde before Newport, June 18. The 15th of this Month General Fagel carried the Fort of Plaisendael Sword in Hand, with no more Loss of his side than one Man; and took Prisoners a Lieutenant Colonel, 2 Captains, and about 140 Soldiers. He likewise possess'd himself of the Bridge of Santworde, and of the Sluyces which the Enemy had at both Places. The 16th M. d' Auverquerque arriv'd at Gistel near Oudenbourg, with a Detachment from the grand Army of the Allies consisting of 21 Battalions and 30 Squadrons. The 17th at Day-break, he decamp'd from thence and came hither with all his Horse and all General Fagell's, leaving all the Foot after they had joyn'd, at Laingen. The Enemy having cut the Digues have overflow'd the Ground hereabouts with Salt Water; part of which we have drain'd off, but must dig Wells to get fresh Water for our selves and Horses. To Day we attempted to pass the Viervoet, but 'twas impossible, the Sea being too high. We hope we shall be able to pass it the first low Tide; soon after which we shall open Trenches against the Place. The Enemy thought we would attack Ostend first; and therefore they threw 2 Battalions into it the 16th Instant; so that at present that Garrison consists of 7 Battalions of French and 2 of Spaniards, commanded by the Count de la Motte Audancourt Lieutenant General. To Day some Troops drawn out of Ipres and Dixmuyde march'd to reinforce the Garrison of Newport; which the Enemy seem resolv'd to defend well.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated June 22.

Bruges, June 19. The Allies having taken the Fort of Plaisendael near Ostend, and drain'd the Water out of the Canal, to hinder the Garrison of Ostend's being supplied with Provisions, and having closely block'd up that Place, march'd the 17th with 25000 Men towards Newport; which Place they invested that Afternoon. In the Evening they took by Assault the great Redoubt before the strong Fort of Nieuwendam; and yesterday Morning they began to fire upon that Fort from a Battery of 10 Pieces of Cannon. 'Tis thought, that to Day, or to Morrow at furthest, they will be Masters of that Fort. Yesterday Morning the Duke of Marlborough, with the grand Army of the Allies march'd from Arfele, encamp'd at Rousselaer in the Afternoon, and this Morning post'd himself at Bekelair, 2 Leagues from Ipres and a League and a half from Menin.

Ghent, June 20. 'Tis reported as certain, that the Harbour of Newport, which was design'd to be clear'd this Summer, is so fill'd with Sand, that Horse may pass it. Batteries are raising for bombarding Dendermonde; Yesterday and to Day that Garrison made a great Fire with their heavy Cannon on the Troops that block up that Place. The Swiss Colonel Greder who commands in it, seems resolv'd to defend it to the last Extremity.

From the Harlām Courant, dated June 22.

Amsterdam, June 21. 30 Flyboats are hir'd here for Transports; and 2500 Foot and 900 Dragoons, with their Horses and Baggage, are to be embark'd in them, to serve in the intended Descent.
